

Live in Washington D.C. and get internship credit.

The Washington Center

Looking for a summer internship?

Did you know there are opportunities to live in Washington, D.C., do an internship, and earn academic credit? The Washington Center is an educational non-profit we work with who provides an academic internship experience in the nation's capital. Their mission is to help you launch a career you'll love through their one-of-a-kind program. Students are hand-matched to internships in the metropolitan area and receive tailored advice and guidance throughout their time in the capital. Internship runs May 30 – August 1.

The Washington Center is currently accepting applications for summer 2020. The University of Arizona has 10 scholarships available for the program fee and housing worth $12,090.

To apply for this scholarship and internship experience:

You must be a sophomore, junior, or senior (not graduating before December 2020) who is 18+ years of age and in good academic standing. You must be able to receive academic credit for the program and maintain a GPA of 2.75 or higher.

Step 1: Apply directly to The Washington Center (twc.edu). Acceptance to TWC doesn't guarantee a scholarship award. Use the code APPLY2020 to waive the $60 fee.

Step 2: Apply for the scholarship via Handshake (bit.ly/37Nb6iP) once your TWC app has been accepted. Deadline to apply for both is March 18.

Questions? Contact Kathy Koppy:

kkoppy@email.arizona.edu

Student Engagement
& Career Development